

1. Identify suitable tools for system development based on the objectives you had given in step1.
Hint: Matlab and Python are some of the common tools available.

Python

2. Design your algorithm (system flow) to process the data according to your objectives. This can be done using flowchart, pseudocode, or other tools.

